Royale Far Infrared Sauna

your lazy way to perfect health...

What is an Infrared Sauna?

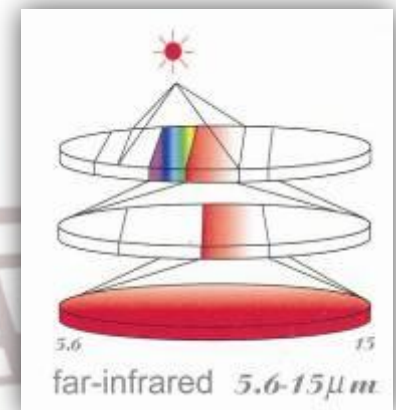

- Infrared Sauna heats its occupants with heaters that emit far infrared radiant heat.
- Unlike traditional Finnish Saunas, infrared saunas do not use steam, but instead use infrared radiation to directly heat the user.
- It is usually a wooden box, or small wooden room, containing several infrared heaters.
- the infrared heater produces radiant energy, which is the same as the heat from the sun, only without the harmful ultraviolet rays

Infrared Sauna – Working Principle

- Royal far infrared sauna incorporates the advantages of both sunlight bath and sauna all in one.
- Far Infrared Ray can penetrate 40mm deep into human skin, so that the recipient could receive an infrared massage, making cell tissues resonant, accelerate blood circulation and eliminate the impurities
- Safe
- Body Absorbs 93% of heat generated

Far Infrared Sauna vs. Conventional Sauna: Health Related Advantages

Temperature Advantage

- Far infrared saunas operate at temperatures of 38 degrees C to 55 degrees C.
- Conventional saunas operate at temperatures of 65 degrees C to 80 degrees C, temperatures are not as well tolerated.

Better Heating

- Warms the user to a much greater depth (up to three inches) and more efficiently than the conventional sauna.
- Induces 2-3 times the sweat volume as conventional saunas, increasing many of the health benefits, including detoxification, cardiovascular conditioning, and calorie burning.

Safe and Effective

- Far infrared's resonant absorption causes more toxins expelled through the kidney, liver, and hair.
- The lower heat ranges may be safer for those with cardiovascular risks.

Far Infrared Sauna vs. Conventional Sauna: Usability Advantages

Easier Setup

- Far infrared saunas are portable and easy to assemble.
- Warm up only takes 5-10 minutes compared to 30-90 minutes for conventional saunas.

Pleasant Usage

- Temperature is moderate in Far Infrared Sauna and not hot surfaces
- The air is more pleasant and easier to breathe, making the sauna more comfortable to use.

Low Maintenance

- Infrared energy requires 90% less electrical energy (thus a lower electrical bill).
- Uses no water, thus no plumbing costs, bacterial growth, or cleanup

Health Benefits from an Infrared Sauna

- Better Circulation and Increased Energy
- Weight Loss
- Cardiovascular Health
- Speed Recovery from Injuries
- Detoxification
- Stress Reduction & Relaxation
- Skin Beautification
- Improved Immune System
